Deceptive Covers.

It is safest, in London secondhand bookstalls at least, to look into a book before buying it. A London bookseller has confessed in court that he and others had the habit of "buying up old books and sticking covers on 'em." It appears that the plaintiff had found on buying "Nicholas Nickleby" and "Oliver Twist" that there was never a word about Nicholas and Oliver in

How He Got It.

"I," said the gruff old merchant to the young man who wanted to go away for a week, "have worked here for 22 years without a vacation."

"Yes, I know it. That's why I want to get away. But for the horrible example you present I might be willing to work on and on without a "-

Let it suffice to say that he got his vacation.-Chicago Times-Herald.

Impressed.

"Isn't it awe inspiring," said the youth with tendencies toward the sub-lime, "to think of this earth rushing forward on its track, superior to all human direction and beyond all restraint?

"Yes," answered the fair girl softly after a long pause. "It makes me think of my new automobile."-Washington Star.

How He Got Exercise.

Lord Palmerston used a clever expedient for coercing himself into a little regular dally exercise.

It was his custom when in government positions to have his inkstand placed upon a table several yards away from the desk at which he worked, so that he had to walk several paces for each dip of ink. He attributed his maintenance of sturdy health and jaunty manner under the trying conditions of office routine to this simple practice, as also his habit of performing all work standing.

Rendy Answer.

"Papa, what is the meaning of the word 'candelabra'." asked Sammy Snaggs, who was doing his "home work.

"That's easy, Sammy," replied Mr. Snaggs. "The word explains itself. A candy laborer is a workman in a candy factory." - Pittsburg Chronicle-Tele-

This old world at best is only an anwil and life a sort of Plutonian blacksmith, that, with varying blows, strikes us into form. The blow that hurts us most may shape us best.

I never listen to calumnies, because if they are untrue I run the risk of being deceived, and if they are true, of hating people not worth thinking about .- Montesquieu.
